Fellowship

What:

Fellowship program for students

When:

Academic year 2019 – 2020

Why:

Get paid to do environmental organizing work on your campus and in your community while gaining important grassroots organizing skills.

Starting in the academic year of 2019-2020, the Rachel Carson Council will be starting a new fellowship program. We are looking to work with students who are passionate about working on environmental issues on their campus and in their community. As an RCC fellow, you will organize a sustainability project on your campus and engage with other activists on issues affecting your community. Fellows will gain important organizing experience and receive a 2,000 dollar stipend over the course of the year.

Field Organizer

The Rachel Carson Council is an organization carrying on Rachel Carson's environmental ethic combining a wonder for nature, concrete science and empathy for fellow human beings to push forward a just and sustainable environmental future for all. We do this through diverse stakeholder engagement, education and political involvement. We believe that no climate solutions should be based solely upon economic or political advancement and rather should be found in the best available science and with involvement from those communities most heavily impacted.
